Abstract

Traffic through a port of a network switch is monitored and controlled by a token bucket system having a duplex mode in which the bandwidths available for incoming and outgoing packets are controlled by a single token bucket and a half-duplex mode in which the bandwidths for incoming and outgoing packets are controlled by a respective one of two token buckets